From The Rector

Dear Friends,

This summer, I started something that I've wanted to do for a very long time. I've begun taking flying lessons. As of today, I'm a whole 7.6 hours into the experience. I've figured out how to look for signs that the plane might quit working or fall apart mid-flight. I've learned how to drive a plane, on the ground, with my feet. I'm pretty good at taking off, flying straight and level, and even making turns. As they say, however, every take off is optional, but every landing is mandatory. If no one has ever told you this, all me to be the first to inform you that landing a plane is a little bit terrifying, a whole lot ridiculous, and one of the most amazing experiences I've ever had. I'm certainly not an expert, nor am I ready to fly without my instructor close at hand, but I'm really enjoying this new challenge.

As with learning any new thing, there are all sorts of peripheral lessons that come along the way. One of the key things that I'm re-learning in this process is that acquiring a new skill takes time and patience. Or, as I've told folks often in my ordained ministry, practice makes perfect. One does not hop in an airplane and become a pilot on the first try. It takes a lot of reading, a lot of head space, a lot of trust in your instructor, and a whole lot of practice to get it right. In my last lesson, for example, we took off and landed seven times. Up and down, over and over again, for an hour. I didn't get one landing right, but I learned something new each time.

As we finish up our September Living Our Faith Together (L.O.F.T.) series on the Way of Love: Practices for a Jesus Centered Life, I can't help but think about how our journey of faith requires a lot of the same principles as learning to fly an airplane. We can't go from hearing the Bible read every other Sunday to reading it for an hour a day. We can't just skip from saying grace at dinner to 30 minutes of Centering Prayer every morning. You might make it a week, some maybe even two, but it is highly likely you'll end up crashing back to ground, frustrated, with your faith bruised.

What I love about the Way of Love, as the Presiding Bishop has imagined it, is that it leaves lots of room for each of us to incorporate the practices into our own lives in our own ways. Through careful and intentional practice, we can slowly build a deeper relationship with God, and with each deeper move into God, those practices will become easier, time will open up, and before long, you'll find that even in matters of faith, practice makes perfect.

If you want to learn more about the seven practices of the Way of Love – turn, learn, pray, worship, bless, go, and rest – check out the website at <https://www.episcopalchurch.org/explore-way-love> or give me a call, we can grab a cup of coffee and talk more about how God might be calling you to learn something new about your faith.

Grace and Peace,

From The Associate Rector

Dear Friends,

One of the gifts of living out my vocation is to spend time at Continuing Education events; there are a variety of places and things one can do with the time and money set aside for the edification of the work that we spend our lives doing. I took the opportunity last month to go on a Continuing Education retreat with four other newly ordained priests. We are part of a group that meets monthly to check in on each other and on the work of our ministries, even though we are spread out far around the country. Spending time in prayer, in quiet, and in rest was restorative, but we also brought in a retired priest to help us to reflect on our first year of ordained ministry.

It was an insightful and revealing time and she asked us probing questions that highlight some brilliant joys and some difficult lows amongst all of our experiences, some we shared, some we did not. How Gene began the day our day of reflection was to ask us to think of two words that describe the past year; whatever two words came to mind first where the words, that we wrote down without overthinking it. The words in and of themselves were revealing, but then we spent the next few hours reflecting on these words and the complexities of the past year, which help each of us in our own way take a second to reflect on the year.

At the end of our reflection time, Gene reminded us of our two words that described the past year, and then asked us to think of two more words; she asked us to give two words that signify our hope for the coming year. “What do you need to do to find these things?” she posed to us as she let us end our time together in silence reflecting on these things.

Retreat is important; taking time to re-center ourselves in what is truly vital is central to living our lives the way we want to live them. One of the things that I love about the Fall is that it feels like a new start; it’s an opportunity to pause, to reflect, and reorient ourselves to the hope of the coming year.

What are your two words that describe your past year?

What are the two words that describe your hope for the future?

Grace and Peace,

Outreach Spotlight: Room in the Inn

Christ Church will begin its 4th year of involvement with Room in the Inn. RITI is a program that houses the homeless, or guests as we like to call them, thru the winter months. The season will run from November 15th-March 15th.

We will be hosting twice a month on Wednesday nights. We provide them dinner, breakfast and a sack lunch. Most guests use our laundry and shower facilities and usually enjoy a movie in the EYC lounge.

Ways to be involved include making meals, making up the cots with linens, taking and picking up the linens from the laundry but most importantly being an innkeeper. Innkeepers must be available from 5pm-7am the following morning. They insure everything is ready for our guests.

There will be a training in October if you need more information. Or you may contact Digby Palmer at 270-535-9838 or Belinda Palmer at 270-535-0497.

Churches United in Help Ministry

Where does a single parent turn when one of her children, who has a broken leg, has been diagnosed with a rare bone disease and needs home care? The mother must stay home with the child so she cannot work. Then she receives an electric bill of over $200. We had this case show up recently while interviewing people for help with utilities, emergency prescriptions, and gasoline for trips to doctors in Louisville and Nashville.

Fortunately, we were able to help this parent and refer her to other agencies for more long term help because of your generosity. But we are not able to help many people with similar problems because of a lack of sufficient funds. If you are willing to support this outreach ministry, mark your check for HELP MINISTRY and it will go to a worthy cause. Thanks in advance for your generous support!

Lay Pastoral Care Ministry

The Lay Pastoral Care Ministry is designed to assist the clergy in providing love, care and concern to fellow parishioners and to be a “ministry of presence.” The following persons coordinate the various aspects of this ministry:

Visitation -- Richard Greer;

Eucharistic Visitors -- Helen Siewers;

Prayer Shawl Ministry -- Mary Travelsted;

Food Ministry – Shelby Moore;

Altar Flower Delivery – Mary Hart Lyle;

Card Ministry – Sharon Dyrsen

Communication Coordinator – Sue Edwards

If you would like to know more about this ministry, contact one of the coordinating persons listed above. Hamp Moore and Laura Harper Lee are the vestry liaisons to this ministry and can also provide additional information.

Pastoral Care Meal Ministry

Most of us experience times in our lives when we need a little help or would appreciate knowing that we are cared for. A prepared and delivered meal is one expression of love and caring that many of us are able to provide. The Lay Pastoral Care Committee would like to organize this effort so that Father Steve and Mother Becca can offer meals to parishioners in times of need, such as recovering from surgery or when grieving.

If you would be interested in participating in this ministry or would like to know more, please contact either Jamie Chaffin (missjamie12@yahoo.com) or Carol DuBose (caroldubose@aol.com)

Deaf & Hard of Hearing Ministry

FM wireless receivers, earbuds, & neckloops

The Deaf and Hard of Hearing Ministry Team has ordered neckloop telecoil couplers and will let you know when the neckloops have been received.

Our church has a collection of small FM wireless receivers that are located at the rear “red door” entrance. These devices are free to be used by any of our parishioners who range from being slightly hard of hearing to profoundly hard of hearing. These receivers will pick up the wireless FM broadcast of all the lay and clergy speakers using microphones in our worship area.

Those not using hearing aids can listen to the receiver with the attached ear buds and the volume can be adjusted with the volume control wheel located at the top of the receiver. Listeners who have hearing aids with telecoil setting option can use the receiver with a neckloop telecoil coupler that will take the place of the wired earbuds. The neckloop uses invisible magnetic energy to transfer the electrical signal from the receiver output directly into a hearing aid equipped with a telecoil. This light-weight loop is comfortably worn around the neck. The size of the loop is adjustable and there is a break-away safety feature in each neckloop.

Neckloop users can adjust the loudness of sound with the volume control wheel located at the top of the receiver. Many hearing aids have a telecoil setting programmed to let the user choose to softly hear others sitting next to them, or block out all surrounding sounds while using the neckloop.

The FM wireless receiver used with either earbuds or neckloop is a solution that will allow our parishioners to reduce room echoes and other distracting sounds as they listen to the service in our worship area, to better enjoy the benefit of our church’s wireless FM sound system.

For more information about the neckloops or for assistance, speak with Terry Knauff.

Community Conversation On Civil Discourse

Thursdays, October 11 through November 8
600 State Street 7:00PM – 8:00PM

Civil discourse is engagement in conversation intended to enhance understanding. Civil discourse is important as we seek to understand our increasingly complicated world. We must maintain a desire to talk with each other respectfully, even in disagreement or debate. Civil discourse will challenge us, expose us to new ideas, and bring us closer together as we continue the pursuit of justice and peace.. In this curriculum, we will cover tenets for civil discourse, values-based conversations, the messiness of policymaking, and the importance of maintaining a sacred space for debate.

More information on the curriculum can be found at:
